KYE - Hotel

welcome

The concern with Hotel Fires is their complexity.
This is due to;

- High occupancy
- Lack of knowledge of building
- Understanding of English/Oral or written directions

So with the causes of Hotel fires being Smoking Materials, Electrical, Cooking Fires or Arson it is important to relay Emergency Procedures to guests in a way that's fully comprehensible.

Research has shown that it takes the brain seconds to comprehend the meaning of a paragraph of text. If that information is delivered through a visual image or picture it only takes hundredths of a second to process. This delivery method needs to be harnessed for the hotel industry.

Traditionally, educating guests on their emergency procedures has been through a book or pamphlet that is either left on a desk or gathering dust in a drawer.

Evacuation routes are explained to the guest on a map on the back of a door that may possibly give the wrong information when it is crucial or may be read during the emergency situation, which is just too late.

With a television in every hotel room providing entertainment, news and information, all at the touch of a button is the power of this media being utilised properly? Not until now.

Know Your Exit Limited has developed the Room Evacuation Assist for TV, Plasma and Display Screens called e-vac pac.

With dedicated building specific emergency procedures, e-vac pacs educate in a full colour, fully animated audio visual format.

Fire Exit locations and Evacuation Procedures not only keep the interest of the viewer but deliver key information that can be retained.

With the onus on the hotelier to provide the best emergency safety guidelines for their guests, Know Your Exit: e-vac pacs can support and enhance the Guest's Safety Awareness.

Streamlining evacuation procedures Saves Lives AND Saves Time. Guests are assured they are being treated with the utmost importance and hotels can promote this feature.

Safety for All is great PR.

Know Your Exit

location

Know Your Exit is located in ArcLabs Research and Innovation Centre in Carriganore, Waterford. ArcLabs was established by Waterford Institute of Technology in 2005 and is based at the 150-acre West Campus in Carriganore in a woodland setting on the banks of the River Suir, just a few minutes from the outer ring road. This magnificent setting helps ArcLabs' companies to attract customers, staff and investment.

ArcLabs is the base for WIT's Centre for Entrepreneurship which promotes, supports and develops entrepreneurship programmes and research. The Centre delivers the South East Enterprise Platform Programme (SEEPP) which supports entrepreneurs involved in knowledge-based start-ups.

The centre is also the headquarters of one of Ireland's largest and most successful technology research operations, TSSG, which employs over 120 highly skilled researchers and developers and has attracted over 40 million in research programmes since its inception in 1996.
